For Parents:

14. When Barack Obama was living in Indonesia at the age of 11, his Mother realized his schooling there would not be sufficient if she was going to send him back to Hawaii to an American School. Every morning at 4:00 am, she would wake him up and give him an English lesson before he would go to school and before she went to work. Barack admits he would feign bellyaches or sleepiness but his Mom persevered and would patiently repeat her most powerful defense to his frustrations. “This is no picnic for me either, buster.”
