model of delivery for all of its world language classes. In a one-for-one model, each year of language taken at CMS is equivalent to a year of high school world language. Because of this, a CMS student can potentially take two years of a world language and, upon successful completion, begin with the third year of the world language as a freshman. Students who start a world language in middle school, must take and pass at least one year of the same world language as a freshman in order to 'validate' the middle school courses. Failure to do so will disqualify the middle school world language courses. It is critical that parents and students understand both the advantages and implications of starting a world language in middle school.

college, including waiting until high school to start the required course of study, or what is known as the A-G requirements. However, for motivated students who want to challenge themselves, there are advantages to beginning their world language classes at CMS. By taking one or two years of world language at CMS, students free up space in a crowded high school schedule. But please consider that CSU and UC require that the three years of world language be consecutive. For instance, if a student takes French 1 in 7th grade, then decides not to take French 2 in 8th grade, the student would need to start again with French 1 or another first year world language in high school.

Chinese is a unique world language offering at CMS and CHS. For motivated students, the class offers the opportunity to learn a challenging yet interesting language that will clearly become an important language as China's role on the international stage grows. However, because we have only one Chinese teacher for the middle school and high school, students MUST start Chinese in 7th grade and progress into Chinese 2 in 8th grade and Chinese 3 in high school. There is no option to start Chinese in 8th grade or at the high school. For this reason, it is important to consider your child's interest in this language carefully in 6th grade.

Because CSU and UC do not accept D or F grades in college prep classes, students will only be recommended to move to the next language course if they receive a grade of C or higher in all trimesters, and it is highly recommended that a student repeat the course if they earn less than a B-

For our motivated learners, world language courses offer a wonderful challenge that also prepares them for college entry. However, it is important to understand fully the implications of starting high school level classes in middle school. If you have questions about whether world language is right for your child, please don't hesitate to contact your child's counselor.
