Round One of the CMS Mudbowl Series went to the still Undefeated Faculty All Stars by a final score of 21-7. Although the 6th graders played feisty football, snagging a couple interceptions to keep the game close, the faculty team's swarming defense made it hard for them to move the ball after opening the game with a touchdown. Said game MVP, Jeff Nakamura, "When it comes to Mudbowl, my job is to intimidate and overwhelm the opponent and it feels good to have been able to do that today. I can't wait to get after the 7th graders tomorrow!". That's right CMS, the mild-mannered science teacher you know and love turns into a beast on the Mudbowl field. Game two of the Mudbowl series takes place today at lunch with the faculty taking on the 7th graders.
